Challenging Conversations: Concepts and Tools for Successfully Addressing Tough Conversations That We Dread and Try to Avoid Wednesday, June 14, 2017

Should I say something or just keep my concerns to myself? Is it worth the risk to bring up this important, yet uncomfortable topic?

We all experience conversations that are difficult; conversations which we would prefer to avoid. However, there are concepts to help better understand why some conversations seem so difficult. There are strategies, techniques and skills you can learn to more successfully engage in challenging conversations.

This workshop will focus on enhancing your understanding of how to approach tough conversations, improving your skills and confidence in addressing difficult situations, and developing strategies for better conversation outcomes. Participants will leave with an enhanced understanding, improved skills and confidence, and strategies to successfully address tough issues in the county workplace.

Succession Planning & Leadership Development in County Government: Are You Ready?

Friday, August 11, 2017

With Baby Boomers beginning their exodus into retirement, increasing annual turnover, and demographic shifts in workforce composition many organizations are asking: Are we ready? Do we have the right talent ready to fill the gaps? How are we going to address our workforce challenges?

In this workshop, participants will:

- Explore succession planning and leadership development best practices;
- Learn what processes, approaches and tools are most effective for identifying high potentials, managing talent pools and developing leaders at all levels;
- Assess and consider how engagement, generational differences and a supportive learning culture effects retention and development; and
- Determine next steps in the development of an integrated talent management strategy.

Leading Continuous Improvement in Your County Friday, November 3, 2017

This class is specifically designed for county government employees who wish to hone their skills in basic process improvement tools. Maybe you attended AMC's LEAN 101 class in the past but now you are ready to apply the concepts in your workplace. This is a perfect class for you to practice lean tools.

The class starts with a 30-minute segment on lean basics and the remainder focuses on how to select a county process for improvement; how to build a swim lane map using effective brainstorm methods; seeking consensus through affinity mapping; and using fishbone or impact effort grids.

Presenter: Toni Smith, AMC Trainer & Private Consultant

What's Happening at Your Front Counter? How to be Inclusive and Welcoming Wednesday, November 15, 2017

This workshop is a combination of Ellie Krug's three most popular sessions, including Gray Area Thinking™ (GAT) inclusivity training. It starts with an understanding of how we group and label other humans (Ellie prefers this phrase given that the word "bias" sometimes connotes being judged); the training then involves an audience participatory "Identity Game" to show how we group and label ourselves; from there, the training involves showing a short video of a man saving a woman from suicide to introduce the gray area thinking toolset; the training then proceeds to discussing the three levels of inclusivity (e.g. tolerance, acceptance, and party host) and on the value of allyship. Then, participants create a Workplace Diversity & Inclusion Plan with consideration toward the organizational challenges of initiating a plan; a useful template to create a basic plan; and how to "sell" the plan to persons in power. Finally, participants will try out courageous conversations in the areas of diversity and inclusion.
